

Cows and the Summer

Contact us with any questions about summer and your animals

There are several things you should do to keep your cows happy in the hot summer months in Phoenix, Mesa, Gilbert, Queen Creek and the surrounding Valley of the Sun in Arizona.

- Cows need more nutrition in the hot summer. However, cows can't eat as much because of the heat
 - Feed them smaller amounts more frequently. Try three meals a day instead of two.
 - Fresh, clean water is important. Cows usually drink around six to twelve quarts of water per day during a hot summer
 - If your cow has scours it might need as much as twenty quarts a day
 - With plenty of fresh water, they will eat more starter grain for you.
- Sunny days are nice for cows, but not all day. Cows like shade as well. They also enjoy a fan near them to cool down.

If you have any questions on how to help me be healthy and happy during these hot months, please talk to your veterinarian. They will love to help you with all your questions!
